FROM THE UPPER ROOM TO PENTECOST:
A Feminist Ethic of Racial Mercy
July 8-13, 2018

Like the disciples during the days between the Crucifixion and the Resurrection, white American Catholics find ourselves trapped in an upper room of confusion, guilt, shame, denial, anger, and fear when it comes to facing racism in our country and our Church. No matter how good our intentions, we cannot work for racial justice from these confining spaces without first seeking racial mercy. To that end, this Institute will explore the fundamentals of racism—definitions, historical developments, and theological underpinnings—as well as resources within the Catholic tradition for undoing racism or anti-racism, in order to embrace more fully the multicultural promise of Pentecost.

Resource Person: Maureen H. O'Connell, PhD, is Chair of the Department of Religion at LaSalle University, PA where she is also an Associate Professor of Christian Ethics. Maureen's current research project explores racial identity formation, racism, and racial justice in Catholic Institutions of Higher education.

FOLLOWING JESUS ON THE

OUR INCOMPLETENESS IS OUR DIGNITY:
Faith Confirmed in Film
July 22-27, 2018

John of the Cross believed we are created to need God and "our incompleteness is our dignity." Most cultures assert the opposite: "need no one; be self-sufficient!" Film artists remind us our relationships and life experience are often leaving us confused, empty and anxious. John of the Cross says "when we utter our appeal from there, we are being mature, being what we were meant to be . . . and if our anxieties are tokens of our deeper need, then when it begins to ache, this is not an obstacle to prayer. It can be the point which opens on to God." We will explore these truths through film and in dialogue with Christian spiritual sources.

NAVIGATING LIFE'S TRANSITIONS:
Resilience and the Pilgrim's Journey
May 6-10, 2018

Mind–Body and Spirit—terms familiar to us as we daily embrace the incredible grace-filled journey of “living.” Do we eagerly look forward to the questions the day will bring? Are we anxious about what we might be unable to “control” – such as “aging gracefully”? During this program Dr. Danilo takes us on the Pilgrim’s Journey—a winding path that identifies risk factors for unhealthy aging and highlights healthy decisions that protect us and help us to thrive. The sacred lens of faith will be our tool through which we view the choices we make along our Journey and understanding God as our companion frees us to love the path we travel.

Resource Person: Mariette Danilo holds a doctorate from Columbia University in Psychology. She is currently the Director of Education for Saint John Vianney Center (SJVC) in Downingtown, PA. Dr. Danilo creates programs for human development on stress and anger management, resilience, compassion and confrontation implementing soft skills such as listening and conflict resolution.

FUTURE DREAMING:
21st Century Possibilities for Christian Living
May 13-18, 2018

Is it possible to live a Christian Life in today’s world? People of good will believe so. Discovering the truth of God’s immutability is the work of reflection and discussion and possibly discomfort as this program explores. What are the possibilities for Christian Living in the light of Scripture, Science, and the evolution of Christian thought? How can we discern what lies beyond the horizons now appearing, so as to prepare the next generation?

GOD, EVOLUTION AND THE UNFINISHED SELF
May 20-25, 2018

Nature has an intrinsic need to transcend itself and while we continue to resist these transcendent forces we are in continual evolution. Where are we going? and What is God doing? With a particular focus on the integral relationship between mind and matter, we will explore the relationship between consciousness, space and the mystical quest for holistic reality. Quantum physics, cosmology and evolution will provide the insights from which to do this exploration. We will reflect on Teilhard de Chardin’s notion of withinness and withoutness to see how we might evolve toward a planetary consciousness of love.

Resource Person: Iliia Delio, OSF, received her doctorate in Historical Theology from Fordham University. She holds the Endowed Chair in Theology in the Department of Theology and Religious Studies at Villanova University. A prolific author, her many articles and abstracts testify to her wide field of knowledge in the subjects of evolution, spirituality and the universe story. Dr. Delio’s latest book from Paulist Press, 2017 is A Hunger for Wholeness: Soul, Space and Transcendence.

SPIRITUAL RESOURCES FOR INTERFAITH PEACEMAKING
June 3-8, 2018

When Jesus gazed at the holy city of Jerusalem, he wept and lamented that its inhabitants lacked awareness of “the things that make for peace” (Luke 19:42). Two millennia later, the same ignorance underlies the scourges of warfare and terrorism afflicting humanity everywhere. How can Jews, Christians, Muslims, and others join forces to heal the wounds of conflict by transforming fear to trust, anger to forgiveness, and grief to compassion for the suffering of others? This program will address these challenges and help participants develop insights and skills for interfaith peacebuilding.

Resource Person: Yehezkel Landau, D.Min., is an interfaith educator, trainer, and consultant active in Jewish-Christian-Muslim relations and Israeli-Pales-

UNDER THE BAOBAB TREE:
Spirituality Nourished by Nature
June 10-15, 2018

Combining a love of nature, a lifetime of service on the African continent with a commitment to peace and justice, Janice will help us see the world through the eyes of “ostriches, dung beetles and other spiritual masters”. She will use practical examples and walks in nature to introduce us to the wisdom within each of us as well as the wisdom within all creation. Janice will invite us to get comfortable under the spreading branches of the ancient baobab tree.

Resource Person: Janice McLaughlin, MM, PhD, is an adult educator, journalist and human rights advocate. She has lived and worked with liberation movements, refugees, war veterans, religious communities and urban as well as rural poor on the African continent. FACING INTO CHAOS:
Deepening Communal Contemplation,
Transforming Consciousness
June 17-22, 2018

In chaos theory the tipping point is described as the time when all the familiar structures and systems no longer work. At that point we are invited to either breakdown or breakthrough. This program explores the world in which we find ourselves, how our various stages of consciousness effect how we perceive what is happening and the role contemplation serves in the transformation of consciousness. It will involve prayer, presentations, small and large group processes all rooted in communal contemplation and dialogue.

Resource Person: Nancy Sylvester, IHM, MA, founded the Institute for Communal Contemplation and Dialogue in 2002 in response to her experiences working for justice and right relationships in church and in society. She serves as President of the Institute and as Executive Director of its major project. She is convinced that transformation of society and church requires a contemplative response.

MISSION, MARGINS AND INTERCULTURAL LIVING
June 24-29, 2018

Always looking to Jesus, his life and mission as our example, this Program will enable us to enter into an understanding of the concept of intercultural living; the very foundation on which the future of international religious life depends. We will explore intercultural living as a way of doing mission itself as an example to those who feel discouraged or trapped in a world of xenophobia and hostility to “the other”. This program invites participants to reflect on how
